

Leave satellite radio alone. The government doesn't need to over step it's bounds and meddle this media outlet just because the NAB is pressuring them to do so. Just because the NAB is losing business on their over air stations doesn't mean satellite radio should be punished. I feel that if you begin to restrict and over-regulate satellite radio you will ultimately take the viewer's choice away by limiting satellite radio's capability. This technology is a superior media for the user/viewer and should be allowed to grow and not extinguished by regulation.

Thanks.
